INTRODUCTION.

The chief sources of information for students of Saco annals and genealogy are the town records of Saco and Biddeford and the church records of the two places. The town records begin with the year 1653, when the settlements of Saco Falls were constituted a township under the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. They furnish a miscellaneous account of land partitions and transfers, acts of taxation and local enactments of other kinds and are tolerably complete up to the year 1688. The town records for the years 1688 to 1717 are wanting. It has been surmised that the papers were destroyed by some party of marauding Indians or lost during the confusion attending some threatened attack: but it is more likely that no entries were made in the town books between the dates mentioned, owing to the fact that the dangers of the time had caused most of the inhabitants of Saco to remove to places of greater safety.

The town records from 1717 on have been preserved intact. The original papers are on file at the city clerk's office in Biddeford. A few years ago a transcript was made by a penman of some local celebrity, who performed the task faithfully, but was not imbued with a student's regard for details of spelling and other minutia.

In 1762 the present city of Saco was set off from Biddeford and became an independent town under the name of Pepperellborough. The original records of the town of which this pamphlet is a reprint of the first volume, are preserved in the office of the Saco city clerk.

A portion of the records of the first church in Biddeford have been published in the Maine Historical and Genealogical Recorder, Vols. 5, 6 and 7, published in Portland by S. M. Watson, and are therefore, in a form convenient for consultation. The records of the Pepperellborough church in possession of the First Congregational church in Saco are intact and it is hoped, may be given to the public soon.

The publication of records by multiplying copies lessens the chances of destruction and renders them available for handy consultation. The advantages of preserving records of all kinds are too apparent to need demonstration. It is to be hoped that the work of which the following pages mark the beginning may be continued by those having valuable material in hand until the matter now already old and rapidly deteriorating may have been rehabilitated in permanent form. Especially is it desirable that the early records on file at the office of the city clerk in Biddeford should be printed while the original papers are yet sufficiently legible for use in justifying and amending the transcript.
